The Treble Staff in Review

This is a staff. It has five lines and four spaces.

This is a treble clef. It is used for high notes. It is sometimes called the G clef because it crosses the G line four times.

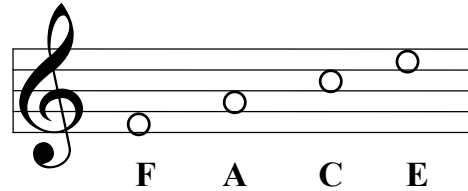

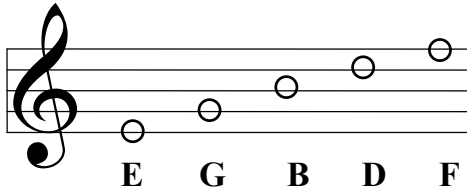

A staff with a treble clef sign is called a treble staff.

G line →

The notes on the treble staff lines are E G B D F. To help remember, we use the saying Every Good Boy Does Fine.

The notes on the treble staff spaces are F A C E. Notice how they spell the word face... and that rhymes with space!

YOUR ASSIGNMENT:

A. What is a saying to help you remember the letter names of the treble clef lines? (1pt)

B. What is a saying or word that helps you remember the letter names of the treble clef spaces? (1pt)

C. Write in the letter names below these notes. Hint: each measure spells a different word! (6pts)

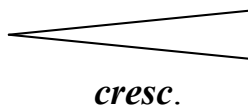

1. _____ 2. _____ 3. _____

Dynamic Markings

There are a number of signs, symbols and terms that tell us how loud or soft the music is to be played. These are called dynamic markings.

SYMBOL	MEANING	PRONUNCIATION
pp	very soft	pianissimo
p	soft	piano
mp	moderately (medium) soft	mezzo piano
mf	moderately (medium) loud	mezzo forte
f	loud	forte
ff	very loud	fortissimo

The markings below direct the player to increase or decrease the level of loudness.

(crescendo) means to play gradually louder.

(decrescendo) means to play gradually softer. This is also called diminuendo.
